

Nutritional supplements in cancer care: an international collaborative effort on evidence synthesis for patients

Need for patient information regarding safety and efficacy of nutritional supplements in cancer care

 Reliable  Up-to-date  Understandable

Approach

Collaborative initiative Patient information developers & supporters of evidence-based practice

Systematic search for evidence on frequently used supplements in

1. International databases: CAMCancer
2. Medline & Cochrane library

Knowledge transition to patients

- Identification of key questions
- Evidence synthesis
- Completeness and comprehensibility check

Reliable, up-to-date, and understandable patient information for 25 nutritional supplements in cancer care

Go
check it out

- What is the supplement?
- Does it help prevent cancer?
- Does it help treat cancer?
- Does it contribute to supportive cancer care?
- Does it interact with cancer treatment?

This collaborative effort bridges evidence and patient understanding and facilitates further international collaboration, to ultimately enhance informed decision-making regarding nutritional supplement use in cancer care.